HBR Consulting LLC Continues to Reinforce Operational Expertise with the Expansion of Key Members of Leadership Team

With Promotions of Senior Leaders Lauren Chung and Brandon Wright, HBR Consulting Demonstrates Continued Focus on Providing Clients with Customized and Innovative Solutions

March 29, 2016 (Chicago, IL) — HBR Consulting LLC (HBR) is pleased to announce the promotions of two highly experienced professionals, Lauren Chung and Brandon Wright, as the firm continues to expand and enhance its solutions to meet the evolving and unique needs of corporate and law firm clients.

Lauren Chung has been named Managing Director in HBR Consulting's Law Department practice. With over 12 years of tenure with the firm, Ms. Chung works closely with Fortune 500 corporate law departments to execute strategy, governance and integration-related efforts. Ms. Chung and her team focus on optimizing legal operations, streamlining organizational design and identifying efficiency opportunities that result in significant cost savings for clients. In her new role, Ms. Chung will expand HBR's leadership in the rapidly growing field of strategic legal operations, as law departments seek out best practices and trends to manage an increasingly challenging industry. In addition to her client work, Ms. Chung drives many of HBR Consulting's data and benchmarking initiatives, including the long-running HBR Law Department Survey, which has served as one of the top sources of benchmarking data for law departments globally over the past 30 years.

Brandon Wright has been promoted to Senior Director within HBR's Strategic Sourcing and Business Optimization practice. Mr. Wright joined HBR Consulting in 2011 after spending nearly seven years in Ernst & Young's Advisory Practice. Most recently at HBR, Brandon was the client lead for a top 10 global law firm where he streamlined the firm's global strategic sourcing operations, which resulted in millions in cost savings. With extensive operational and management consulting experience with Fortune 500 companies, Mr. Wright is responsible for assessing how HBR can continue to deliver client services more efficiently. Brandon also is focused on exploring additional opportunities for HBR Consulting outside of the U.S. as well as outside legal.

"Some of the largest and most respected law firms and corporate law departments work with HBR because we are able to provide unique insights into emerging trends spanning across the legal vertical," said HBR Consulting CEO Chris Petrini-Poli. "Lauren and Brandon are vital members of our leadership team and both provide tremendous value to our clients by driving efficiency and cost-saving opportunities that have a long-term impact on their businesses," said Mr. Petrini-Poli.
